July 15, 2024

Tarifica's "Consumer Value Plan of the Month" highlights Spusu's 5G 40 plan, offering 40 GB of data for 14.90 EUR per month.

NEW YORK, July 15, 2024 /PRNewswire-PRWeb/ -- Tarifica, the leading provider of telecom plan and pricing data, is excited to announce the launch of its new initiative, the "Consumer Value Plan of the Month." This initiative aims to highlight telecom plans that provide exceptional value to consumers, while also helping industry participants better understand what constitutes a high-value, consumer-friendly plan.

For July, Tarifica has selected the 5G 40 plan from Spusu in Austria. This plan stands out for offering consumers significant value at a modest price. For a monthly fee of just 14.90 EUR, customers gain access to a 5G network, six months of free service, no contractual commitment, and substantial service allowances, including 40 GB of data for relatively heavy use. This combination of benefits makes it an excellent choice for consumers seeking high-speed connectivity and ample data at an affordable cost.

"The 5G 40 plan from Spusu is a prime example of what a value-focused plan should look like," said Soichi Nakajima, Tarifica's Vice President of Data and Analysis. "With its competitive pricing, generous data allowance, and flexibility, it meets the needs of a wide range of consumers."

Another standout aspect of this plan is its ability to provide sufficient data and speed for activities like video streaming without the need to constantly connect to Wi-Fi. "Consumers today demand more data and faster speeds, and the 5G 40 plan from Spusu delivers on both fronts," Nakajima added.

To identify this outstanding plan, Tarifica's staff leveraged its advanced Telecom Pricing Intelligence Platform. This platform enables a thorough analysis of telecom plans globally, ensuring that the selection process is based on comprehensive and reliable data.
